To Whom It May Concern:

I believe you have not looked at the consequences of your latest mandate to private insurance companies to make them cover preventive services for women as well as regulating that contraceptives and sterilization services be covered as mandatory without copay. These services should be paid by the person receiving them and if companies or small business that object to covering these type of services because of moral or inability to cover the cost of the insurance than they should not be forced to cover them. For many years we women (and men) have covered these ourself or at the very least had the normal copay and we were okay with it.

If this is a way of pushing "Ombama Care" I would politely ask that you "back off".

Sincerely,
